Tradition

An Ongoing Class

Virginia Tech

used to symbolize campus life. A large poster, located in the entrance to each class and the Student Union, indicates the date for each class.

1948, which began the first class tradition.

"Tradition is bound on every class ring in the portrait of an eagle," says the inscription engraved on the class rings. The eagle symbolizes the student body and the school's heritage, as well as the spirit of the Virginia Tech student body.

Virginia Tech celebrates the tradition with the symbolic class rings, which are handcrafted by students from the class of 1940.

The class of 1940 is represented by a Virginia Tech class ring, which is a symbol of the student body and their achievements.

The Virginia Tech class ring is an important symbol for the student body, representing their pride and unity.

Each class ring is unique, with its own inscription and design, reflecting the spirit and heritage of the Virginia Tech student body.
